Best Practices report

A Best Practices Report on food waste among households with young children and teachers has been drafted to outline effective strategies and techniques to minimize food wastage in such settings.

Next Steps

Our next objective is to develop a playful intervention in the form of a serious game (educational game) for children in primary education. The game would be easy for teachers to implement and tailored to the understanding of children aged 8-12. It will open spark conversations about food habits without judgment, educate players on the impact of consumer behavior and provide knowledge on how to avoid food waste.
